

PRODUCTION DESIGNER SCHOOL OF FILMMAKING

ROCHESTON®

Understand the Role of a Production Designer

A production designer enhances the visual appeal of a film by recreating the 'world' in which the film is set for the audience. At Rocheston School of Filmmaking, students are imparted the basics of art direction and overall production design to help bring out the theme of a film.

Students with a passion for art and visualization are transformed into creative professionals who understand the various elements of filmmaking. Students are taught in-depth techniques of the production process in both the pre-production and post-production stages.
