Understand the Process of 'Visualizing' Sound

Through the course, we instill a deeper understanding of sound in general and also help students co-relate the relationship of sound with emotions, perceptions and experiences. Students are taught the skills of ideation and visualization of sound elements that allow them to compose soundtracks that together with visuals evoke a specific mood among viewers.

The course aims at giving students a deeper understanding of sound engineering and audio-visual production, enabling them to compose powerful tracks that greatly enhance the effect of the visuals.

Participate in Workshops and Practical Sessions

The Rocheston School of Filmmaking offers students the opportunity to attend workshops that are conducted by professionals in the industry. Students are exposed to state-of-the-art sound technology and equipment that are today used to produce brilliant scores that elevate the movie watching experience to a different level.
